

May 10, 2006

Need a Sitter?

BOSTON -- The kids are almost out of school, and if you are looking for a baby sitter to take care of your little ones this summer, help is a click away.

With SitterCity.com, it's easy to search for a sitter in your neighborhood. Just log onto the site and enter your ZIP code. The site will display names, reviews and qualifications, and closeness of the sitters near you.

You can click on a sitter's name in your search results for a full profile including references, contact information, and an online resume.

When you are ready to interview the candidates, the site has some screening tips and questions that you should ask a potential sitter.

It costs about $10 per month to register with the site to search for a sitter. If you are looking for a baby-sitting job, it's free for sitters to sign up with the site.